Excerpt from The Study of Alumni: Some Results and Some Questions From the Sloan School Survey The study of alumni can have many different purposes. For many schools it serves the purpose of keeping in touch, for organizing reunions, and for fund-raising efforts. The kinds of information which are sought involve occupation, geographical location, family status, number of children, politics and any other items of personal significance which class-mates like to know about each other. The typical design is to ask the class secretary to whip up a questionnaire and do a rough tabulation of the first few hundred that come in, put the results in a newsletter, and quote a few statistics which may or may not reflect accurately what is going on. A second and quite different purpose for alumni studies is to study career development. When one attempts to understand how a career develops, it can be very useful to control the characteristics of the entrants into the career. Instead of studying a sample of managers who come from dozens of different professional schools,...
