This system is not the development of a day, but has been in progress, in various ways, for many years, more particularly since the hidden meaning of Magnetism was discovered and applied by us. The nucleus of the present work appeared some time ago in a weekly periodical, in the form of Essays on Natural Science; and the reception given them, along with the importance and admitted necessity for such a work, has induced us to issue the present volume. The date upon which our theories have been built, have, in all the subjects touched upon, been based on personal observations in chemistry, telegraphy and marine diving; in an extensive experience in coal and gold mines: and also while voyaging and travelling along the Gulf Stream, the Calms of the Equator, the coasts of Brazil, California and Mexico, the Mediterranean, the Bay of Fundy, the Hot Sulphur Baths of Salt Lake, the Great Geysers of California, and the mangroves of the Isthmus of Panama.
